

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

The next step in getting that dream job!

Learning Outcome

Identify and describe issues relating to money, in written and spoken situations according to work and social contexts.

Can Do Statements

- I can exchange complex information about work.
- I can explain how to present a good interview.
- I can describe a process.

Ask your partner:

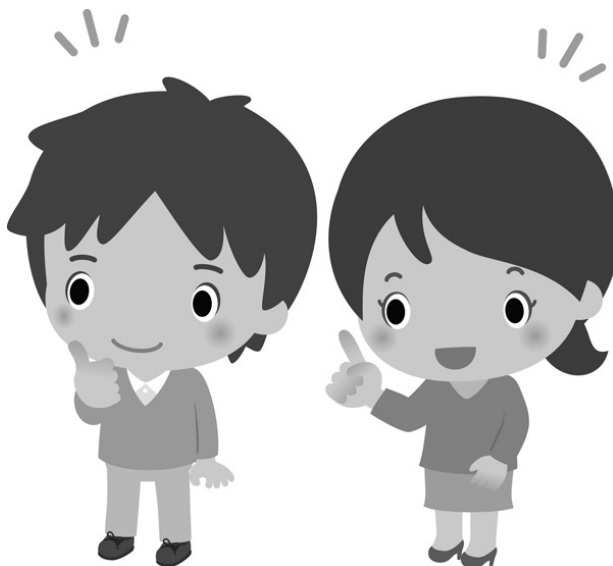

- How often do you prepare for an interview?
- What things do you do to prepare for it?

Let's Explore!

A lesson learned from a friend's interview experience!

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

A friend's bad experience made me want to write and research more on this. I hope this research helps him and has him succeed in his next interview.

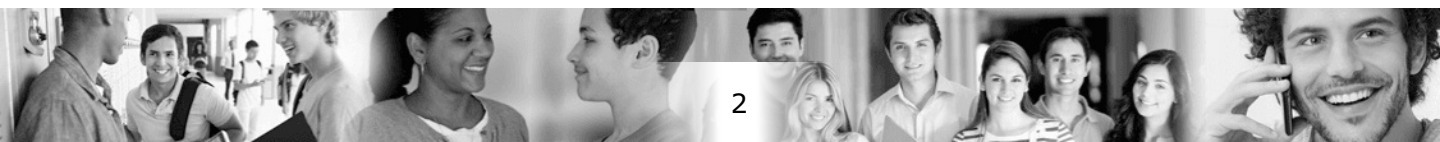

First, a lot of research needs to be done before the interview. Do your homework and find out as much as you can about the company and the job. Go further than just a quick look at the website. This will be useful when you are being asked questions. The job specifications should be studied carefully.

Second, preparation and rehearsal are to be prioritized. Make sure preparation for likely questions is involved. Rehearse interview questions by yourself. Then, get a friend to ask you questions. Have them give you feedback on your answers. These are the best ways to manage your nerves.

Thirdly, questions about certain skills or experience are going to be asked. Have two to three successful stories up your sleeve. Make them work for you by making sure they focus on results.

On the day of the interview, make sure you're punctual. Punctuality is seen as a sign of professionalism. Also, stay focused. It goes without saying that a successful interview is closely linked with being focused and displaying just the right amount of self-confidence. Finally, make them believe you. Be yourself and do not pretend. And, before the interview is finished, ask a few smart final questions. The questions should be focused on the company and what the interviewers consider to be crucial skills for the job.

Now, ace your interview and get hired!

Let's Practice!

Let's prepare for that interview!

Instructions: Use the words from the word bank to correctly complete the sentences.

Word Bank

ace / Punctuality / research / self-confidence / prioritized / skills / feedback

1. I hope this _____ helps him succeed.
2. Preparation and rehearsal are to be _____.
3. They will give you _____ on your answers.
4. Questions about certain _____ or experience are going to be asked.
5. _____ is seen as a sign of professionalism.
6. Be focused and display just the right amount of _____.
7. Now, _____ your interview and get hired!

Let's Practice!

What should be done first?

Instructions: Move the words into the correct category.

1. A lot of research needs to be done before the interview.
2. Before the interview is finished, ask a few smart final questions.
3. The questions should be focused on the company and what the interviewers consider to be crucial skills for the job.
4. Go further than just a quick look at the website.
5. The job specifications should be studied carefully.
6. This will be useful when you are being asked questions.

Passive

Active

Extension Activity

Find a job posting and do a mock interview.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Go online and find a job posting.
- Highlight all the skills and qualifications they ask for.
- With a partner think of and write down 5 or 6 questions an interviewer would ask (about prior experience, strengths and education)
- Give the questions to your partner who will act as the interviewer.
- Use your highlighted sheet to help you answer the questions.

Self-Assessment

Yes No

I research job postings.

☐ ☐

I identify skills and qualifications for the job.

☐ ☐

I write questions based on the job posting.

☐ ☐

I ask and answer questions in a job interview.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- to prioritize (verb): to decide in what order you should do things, based on how important or urgent they are e.g. Preparation and rehearsal are to be prioritized.
- feedback (noun): comments about how well or badly someone is doing e.g. Have them give you feedback on your answers.
- up your sleeve (expression): to have secret plans or ideas
e.g. Have two to three successful stories up your sleeve.
- punctuality (noun): arriving on time
e.g. Punctuality is seen as a sign of professionalism.
- skill (noun): the ability to do something well e.g. Questions about certain skills or experience are going to be asked.
- to ace (verb): to do very well in something e.g. Ace your interview and get hired!
- self-confidence (noun): the feeling that you can do things well e.g. You need to display the right amount of self-confidence.
- research (noun): the detailed study of something in order to discover new facts
e.g. I hope this research helps him.

Learning Points

The Passive Voice

In English, all sentences are in either “active” or “passive” voice.

The active voice focuses on the thing which is doing the action (i.e. the subject of the sentence) and the thing receiving the action (i.e. the object). Most sentences in English are in the active voice.

- We need to do a lot of research before the interview.

We use the passive when the ‘doer’ (agent) of the action is not so important. We are not interested in knowing who did the action. Our attention is on the object.

- A lot of research needs to be done before the interview.

Here's some more information about the passive of modal verbs.

1. The Passive is formed by [thing receiving the action] + be + past participle + (by) + (thing doing the action)
2. The passive can be used when the “doer” is unknown, irrelevant, or you want to be vague about who is responsible for the action.
3. You can also use the passive to talk about a general truth.

Examples:

- This will be useful when you are being asked questions.
- The job specifications should be studied carefully.
- Questions about certain skills or experience are going to be asked .
- Punctuality is seen as a sign of professionalism.
- Before the interview is finished , ask a few smart final questions.

Learning Points

Causative With Get/Have

You use a causative verb when you want to talk about something that someone else did for you or for another person. It means that the subject caused the action to happen, but didn't do it themselves.

You use the causative verbs get, make and have when you want to make it clear that the subject paid, asked, or persuaded the other person to do something.

For example:

- His bad experience made me want to write and research more on this.

The structure of the causative is:

have + person + verb

make + person + verb

get + person + to + verb

Sometimes, you use get when you want to convey the feeling that you need to convince someone to do something. Have is a little more neutral.

Examples:

- Make them believe you by being yourself.
- Get a friend to ask you questions.
- Then, have them give you feedback on your answers.
- I hope the research has him succeed in his next interview.

